1962 NEW YORK (N.L.) - With a record of 40-120, many consider this team the worst in baseball history. Finishing last in batting, pitching, and fielding, they trailed San Francisco (pennant winners) by 60 1/2 games. Richie Ashburn's .306 batting average topped the team and Frank Thomas led in homeruns with 34. The beleaguered pitching staff was led by Roger Craig (10-24, 4.51 ERA), Al Jackson (8-20, 4.40 ERA) and Jay Hook (8-19, 4.84 ERA). Losers of their first nine ballgames, they quickly dropped to last place, and were mathematically eliminated from the pennant race August 6th.

For outstanding super-league play, establish a schedule from the above teams and decide who is the finest team from 1900 to 1967 - and perhaps of all time. Or, if you prefer, play them against your modern Strat-O-Matic baseball teams. However you choose to use your "Oldtimers", they will perform realistically and afford you much enjoyment. "The oldtimer cards are one-sided cards, printed in one color - set up only for basic game play."

All 42 oldtimers with all game parts may be purchased for $47.75. The six-team sets (1900 to 1919 teams, 1920 and 30 teams or 1940 teams) may be purchased for $17.35 each and the 8-team sets (1920 and 1930 Series B teams, 1950 and 60 teams or 1960 Series B teams) may be purchased for $19.25. IF YOU HAVE A STRAT-O-MATIC BASEBALL GAME in your possession, you need only purchase the player cards. The 42 teams (836 players) may be purchased for $37.75. The 1900 and 1919 teams (116 players), the 1920 and 30 teams (120 players) and the 1940 teams (120 players) may be purchased for $7.35. STRAT-O-MATIC RECREATED PAST SEASONS

If you are interested in baseball history, you will discover that our matchless baseball oldtimer seasons are a joy to play with and also very enlightening. Strat-O-Matic is extremely proud of the statistical preciseness and "nostalgic feel" ingrained in each of our oldtimer sets, particularly our last several oldtimer season efforts. All these seasons include the super advanced features. This outstanding effort by the Strat-O-Matic statistical staff provides you with ball park factors, pitcher's hold, individual wild pitches, balks and passed balls, batter's clutch hitting, supplementary stealing and of course all basic and advanced features for these glorious seasons.

Tremendous energy is exhausted in creating a Strat-O-Matic oldtimer season. Over 1000 man hours are necessary to create an oldtimer basic and advanced version of Strat-O-Matic Baseball and an additional 500 hours is necessary for a super advanced version. Why so many hours? Strat-O-Matic statisticians must go over each and every box score in order to extract all lefty-righty data and other information not contained in the official baseball records. In addition, all issues of The Sporting News are read for that specific year. In this way, we are also able to develop accurate player ratings. Are these "monster" exertions worthwhile for the baseball fan? We think so. If Strat-O-Matic did not construct this data, we would be forced to utilize the same statistical technique that our competitors use - contrived standardization of the necessary needed statistics. For example, all right handed hitters might be assigned statistics 30 points above their averages against lefty pitching and 15 points below their averages against righty pitching. Doubles, triples, homeruns and walks would also be standardized in the same manner. Irregularities would not exist. How good is this system? Totally unrealistic! In the baseball statistical world very few players conform totally to statistical standardization. Virtually every player's statistics would be partially or totally incorrectly represented. Yes, we would save "huge amounts" of time developing oldtimer seasons, perhaps as much as 90%, but at too great a loss in historical quality reproduction, for you the baseball fan.

How accurate are Strat-O-Matic lefty-righty statistics? We feel that they are very accurate for our purposes, although not as accurate as current lefty-righty breakdowns. The following comparison between 1962 major league club data and lefty-righty statistics developed by Strat-O-Matic illustrates the accuracy of Strat-O-Matic's statistical efforts. We were able to obtain major league lefty-righty information for certain teams from the 1962 season. It must be noted that the major league team statistics used for comparison purposes were not necessarily 100% correct as they also constructed their statistics by hand. Major league club lefty-righty homerun breakdowns for 46 players compared to Strat-O-Matic statistics found the following comparison: 34 players or 74% were in agreement, 10 players or almost 22% differed by one homerun and only 2 players differed by 2 homeruns. Thus 96% were exactly the same or differed by one homerun. We think that is pretty good. Concerning batting averages, a total of 74 players were compared for their batting averages hit off righty pitchers. 65 players or almost 88% differed by 10 points or less and only one player differed by more than 20 points. We think that also is pretty good.

Incidentally, during our extensive 1927 research efforts, Strat-O-Matic uncovered an original American League statistical source error. St. Louis (A.L.) pitcher, Elam Vangilder was incorrectly credited with 100 more pitching at-bats. A Strat-O-Matic statistician contacted the Hall of Fame for verification of this error. The Hall of Fame acknowledged the original error and revised their files concerning Vangilder's pitching record for the 1927 season.

At Strat-O-Matic, we “burn the midnight oil” to give you the most realistic set of statistics and ratings for our oldtimer seasons. It may cost a few dollars more to purchase one of our prestigious oldtimer sets, but each season is a rare realistic “gem” unequaled in the baseball board game and computer game worlds. Just fill out coupon #1 found on page 6.

1911 BASEBALL SEASON

Over 12% of Hall of Fame players are included in the 1911 season. This is one of only two 20th century seasons featuring two batters in one league hitting over .400 (Ty Cobb, .420 and Joe Jackson, .408). Philadelphia, the American League champs, dominated the World Series, defeating the New York Giants in 6 games. The Giants qualified for the Series on the strength of two great pitchers, Christy Mathewson and Rube Marquard, who together won 50 games. Though 1911 is part of the dead ball era, batting averages were hardly stifled. In fact the major league batting average was .267. The AL actually hit .273 with five hitters over .340. The 1911 season teams (405 players) are two sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card is printed in three colors and the basic side in one color.This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1920 BASEBALL SEASON

An astonishing historical roller coaster year, perhaps baseball's most important season of all time. On the positive side, the ushering in of the live ball era, causing a significant increase in batting averages and Power-Ruth's record setting 54 homer card rivaling any hitting card ever released by Strat-O-Matic and 7 players batting over .350, including George Sisler's .407 and Joe Jackson's .382 (his first and only Strat-O-Matic player card). A tight pennant race in the American League, 3 games separating the top three teams and for the first time, the hiring of a powerful baseball commissioner. On the down side, Ray Chapman, the Cleveland shortstop, died from an unintentional pitch thrown by New York (A.L.) pitcher Carl Mays and the late September lifetime suspension of 7 Chicago players for fixing the 1919 World Series. Rumors also surfaced regarding the throwing of additional games in 1920 by Chicago. The 1920 season cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of every player card (378 players) is printed in three colors and the basic side in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1924 BASEBALL SEASON

Washington's only World Series win. They did it with pitching, the best team ERA in baseball and lots of singles. Walter Johnson was the leader of the staff, backed up by the finest relief pitcher of the 1920's, Firpo Marberry. The Giants won a difficult pennant race from Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, three games separating the three teams. However, it was Rogers Hornsby who made the most history, setting the modern day batting average record of .424. Of course Babe Ruth was at his best, leading in homeruns (46) and batting average (.378). The 1924 player cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card (405 players) is printed in three colors and the basic side is printed in one color. This set of cards is setup for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1927 BASEBALL SEASON

Perhaps the most famous of all baseball seasons and the first Strat-O-Matic oldtimer season containing super advanced ratings and rules. New York, acknowledged by many as baseball's greatest team, dominated the American League, winning by a nineteen game margin. The National League race was a thriller with Pittsburgh nosing out St. Louis and New York. Only two games separated these three teams! However, Ruth's 60 homers and the tremendous power, pitching and defense of New York (A.L.) dominated this season. Many Hall of Famers dotted the rosters including Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, George Sisler, Walter Johnson, Rogers Hornsby, Grover Cleveland Alexander, the Waner Brothers, Lefty Grove and of course, Ruth and Gehrig. Ten batters averaged over .350 and 7 pitchers won 20 or more games. The 1927 cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card is printed in 3 colors and the basic side is printed in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1934 BASEBALL SEASON

"Are the Dodgers still in the league?" Yes, Bill Terry (Giant manager), they certainly were! Stengel's sixth place Dodgers beat the Giants twice in the last weekend of the season enabling St. Louis to win the pennant by a scant two games. St. Louis was led by the Dean brothers who together won 49 games. The American league race was won easily by a powerful Detroit team, led by Charlie Gehringer (.356) and Hank Greenberg (.339 and 63 doubles). Lou Gehrig was a triple crown winner with .363, 49 homers and 165 RBI's. This was Babe Ruth's last season in a New York uniform. The 1934 season teams are two sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card is printed in three colors and the basic side is printed in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1941 BASEBALL SEASON

Perhaps the most memorable season of all. The National League sported a two team pennant race won by Brooklyn. Two twenty game winners (Kirby Higbe and Whit Wyatt), the league's batting champion, Pete Reiser and homerun leader, Dolph Camilli inspired Brooklyn. However, it was the American League season dominated by two all-time greats, Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio, that left a lasting impression upon the baseball world. Williams hit .406, belted 37 homers and walked 145 times. DiMaggio finished third in hitting with a .357 average, first in RBI's, fourth in homeruns and most amazing of all, hit in 56 consecutive games. His consecutive game record may never be broken. The 1941 cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card is printed in 3 colors and the basic side is printed in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1948 BASEBALL SEASON

Command performances from Stan Musial (NL leading batting average - .376), Ted Williams (AL top batting average - .369), Joe DiMaggio (AL homerun leader - 39) and many other Hall of Famers. Two and a half games separated the top three teams in the AL with Cleveland winning the pennant and the World Series from Boston (NL). Musial's 39 homers left him one behind the NL's co-homerun leaders, John Mize and Ralph Kiner. A highly recommended set for all baseball fans except for Chicago rooters. This was the only season in history when both Chicago teams finished last. The 1948 season teams (405 players) are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card is printed in three colors and the basic side in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1951 BASEBALL SEASON

A season like no other, 1951 had two photo-finish pennant races, famous rookies (Mickey Mantle, Willie Mays, Minnie Minoso) and spectacular performances by many all-time great players. In the NL, New York won 39 of its final 47 games and Bobby Thomson's historic home run ended a 3 game playoff, upsetting Brooklyn's Roy Campanella (.325, 33 HR), Jackie Robinson (.338), Gil Hodges (40 HR) and Preacher Roe (22-3). Stan Musial won the batting title (.355, 32 HR). In the AL, New York won a four team race and the World Series with Mantle, Joe Dimaggio's final heroics, MVP Yogi Berra and star pitchers Allie Reynolds (two no-hitters) and 21 game winners Ed Lopat and Vic Raschi. The 1951 player cards (440) are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player's card is printed in three colors and the basic side in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1954 BASEBALL SEASON

Veterans Ted Williams, Stan Musial, and Yogi Berra, joined by rookie types, Hank Aaron, Willie Mays and Al Kaline impacted greatly upon an excellent season. New York winners in the National League after a bitter dog-fight with Brooklyn and Milwaukee, overwhelmed Cleveland (winners of 111 games) in the World Series. Willie Mays led the major leagues in batting with a .345 average and also was one of six National Leaguer's to hit 40 or more homers. Ted Kluszewski was the major league homerun leader with 49. Cleveland pitchers, Early Wynn and Bob Lemon each won 23 games. A wonderful season! The 1954 season cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card is printed in 3 colors and the basic side is printed in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1955 BASEBALL SEASON

Brooklyn finally does it, romping to victory in the National League pennant race and then defeating New York in seven games for the World Series Championship. New York barely won the American League race, battling Cleveland and Chicago to the very end. Robin Roberts led both leagues with 23 wins and 26 complete games. Richie Ashburn won his first battling title with a .338 average and Al Kaline, in his second full season, was the American batting champ with .340. Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle led their respective leagues in homeruns. A wonderful season for Brooklyn fans and for that matter, all baseball fans. The 1955 player cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card (411 players) is printed in three colors and the basic side in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1957 BASEBALL SEASON

Ted Williams' second highest batting average (.388) outdistanced fellow Hall of Famer Mickey Mantle by 23 points. Williams' hitting feats could not offset a solid team effort by New York who won the American League pennant by eight games. In the World Series, the National League champions, Milwaukee, prevailed. During the regular season, Hank Aaron and Eddie Matthews smashed 76 homers between them and the pitching trio of Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl combined for 57 victories to lead Milwaukee to an 8 game advantage over second place St. Louis. The 1957 player cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card (405 players) is printed in three colors and the basic side in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1959 BASEBALL SEASON

Two most unusual pennant races for the 1950 era. The Chicago "go-go" White Sox shocked the baseball world by winning the American League pennant, 5 games ahead of Cleveland and an astonishing 15 games in front of the "invincible" Yankees. With eight games to go, the National League race was a battle down to the wire with only two games separating San Francisco, Los Angeles and Milwaukee. San Francisco actually led at this point but were to fall to third place as Los Angeles defeated Milwaukee in a playoff. As usual, Washington finished last in the American League but had 3 players with 30 or more homeruns. Four players (Eddie Mathews, Ernie Banks, Rocky Colavito and Harmon Killebrew) hit more than 40 homeruns and four pitchers won more than 20 games. Hank Aaron was easily the most dominating hitter in baseball winning the batting crown with .355 and smashing 39 homeruns. The 1959 season player cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card is printed in 3 colors and the basic side is printed in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1960 BASEBALL SEASON

September 15, Baltimore and its "apple cheek" pitching staff arrive in New York for a four game series, trailing the first place Bronx Bombers by only one percentage point. Baltimore is swept and New York wins the remaining 11 games on its schedule. In a bizarre World Series, New York loses to Pittsburgh in 7 games. Mantle and Maris finished one-two in American League homers with 40 and 39 respectively. The National League batting crown was won by Dick Groat at .325 and the homerun derby by Ernie Banks with 41. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1963 BASEBALL SEASON

Though winning the most games during the season, New York (AL) was humbled by the superior pitching of Los Angeles, losing in four straight games to a staff led by Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale. The Los Angeles starting pitchers threw all but one inning in the World Series. Pitching also dominated the regular season with nine twenty game winners. Koufax led with 25 wins and an ERA of 1.88. Willie McCovey and Hank Aaron shared the NL homerun crown with 44 each. In the AL Harmon Killebrew's 45 homers edged out Dick Stuart's 42. The 1963 player card set is two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card is printed in three colors and the basic side is printed in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1964 BASEBALL SEASON

Four National league teams and two American league teams finished within 5 games of pennant winners St. Louis and New York. In fact, first place in the National league was occupied by 3 different teams in the last week of the season! Easily the tightest two pennant race season of all time! Harmon Killebrew and Willie Mays won homerun titles with 49 and 47 respectively. On the pitching side, Sandy Koufax and Dean Chance were tops in ERA with 1.74 and 1.65 respectively. The 1964 season teams are two sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card is printed in three colors and the basic side is printed in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1965 BASEBALL SEASON

Two Los Angeles pitchers, Sandy Koufax (26 wins) and Don Drysdale (23 wins), decimated the National League hitters! Their pitching was just enough to allow Los Angeles to squeak by second place San Francisco in the last week of the season. The league's two leading homerun hitters, Willie Mays (52) and Willie McCovey (39) comprised San Francisco's greatest strength. Excellent pitching, Mudcat Grant with 21 wins and Jim Kaat with 18 wins, plus solid hitting led by batting champion Tony Oliva, paved the way for Minnesota winning the American League pennant by seven games over Chicago. The 1965 season cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of every player card is printed in three colors and the basic side is printed in one color. 504 players in this set. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1966 BASEBALL SEASON

Three games separated the top three teams in the NL. But none were a match for Baltimore, the World Series winner. Sandy Koufax, Juan Marichal and Jim Kaat won twenty five games or more. Koufax had an astounding 1.73 ERA, 27 complete games and 317 strikeouts. Triple crown and MVP winner, Frank Robinson led the AL in homers with 49 while Hank Aaron led the NL with 44. Incidentally, Robinson, is the only player to win the MVP award in both leagues (previously, won the NL MVP in 1961). The 1966 player cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card (504 players) is printed in three colors and the basic side in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1967 BASEBALL SEASON

Perhaps the greatest pennant race of all time. Boston, Detroit, Minnesota and Chicago were separated by a mere three games at season's end and California was only 7 1/2 games out! Carl Yastrzemski won the triple crown and Chicago pitchers posted three of the AL's top earned run averages (Horlen - 2.06, Peters - 2.28 and John - 2.47). In the NL, St. Louis romped by 10 1/2 games over San Francisco. Roberto Clemente easily won the batting crown hitting .357. Pitching wise, Fergie Jenkins led the league with 20 complete games and also won 20 games. The World Series was decided in 7 games with St. Louis barely defeating Boston. The 1967 season cards are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player card is printed in 3 colors and the basic side is printed in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1971 BASEBALL SEASON

Pittsburgh surprised favored Baltimore in the World Series, winning in seven games. Quality pitching dominated the season with Hall of Famers Jim Palmer, Tom Seaver, Ferguson Jenkins, Juan Marichal, Gaylord Perry, Catfish Hunter and Bob Gibson "leading the parade". Mickey Lolich of Detroit had an amazing season, winning 25 and completing 29 games. The hitters challenged this awesome pitching with Joe Torre winning the major league batting title (.363), followed by three other NL hitters hitting better than .340. Willie Stargell and Henry Aaron battled to the end for the homerun title with Stargell winning by one (48 to 47) over Aaron. This season is re-released and has been updated to include all super advanced play features. The 1971 player cards (648) are two-sided and printed on perforated stock. The advanced side of each player's card is printed in three colors and the basic side in one color. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.

1977 BASEBALL SEASON

The The New York Yankees' first World Series champions in the George Steinbrenner era ended a 14-year championship drought in New York. Reggie Jackson, Thurman Munson, Graig Nettles, Ron Guidry and Sparky Lyle all starred for the "Bronx Zoo" Yankees managed by Billy Martin. This season was historically significant for other reasons: Rod Carew's .388 average was the highest since Ted Williams' .406 in 1941. George Foster's 52 HR were the most since Roger Maris' 61 in 1961, and would remain the most until the 1990s. NL champion Los Angeles had four men with at least 30 HR each – Steve Garvey, Ron Cey, Dusty Baker and Reggie Smith. The New York Mets traded Tom Seaver in mid-season, and he went 14-3 for Cincinnati. The rookies of the year were baseball greats Eddie Murray and Andre Dawson. This set of cards is set up for basic, advanced and super advanced play.
